

WASHINGTON FOOD GIRL
PRESENTS

The 2021 foodie
gift guide

hello hello foodie friends!

holidays!

I'm Lindsey (AKA washingtonfoodgirl) and I have the holiday gift guide for the foodie in your life. Whether you are looking for a gift for the friend who loves to cook, the family member who loves their evening cocktail, or that person on your list who has everything and is just so hard to shop for - I have ideas for you!

WE ALL LOVE TO EAT, RIGHT?

The past two years have been especially difficult for small businesses, so please SHOP LOCAL and SHARE LOCAL as much as possible this season. This guide has a mix of box store and and small biz shops.

I hope you enjoy shopping with this foodie gift guide and find some great gifts for your friends and family, and maybe even some for yourself!

P.S. Make sure you are following @washingtonfoodgirl on Instagram to see all my foodie favorties!

cheers!

Lindsey

what's going on here?

happy holidays!

This gift guide is split into five pages of AMAZING gifts. You can click on the images in this guide for a link straight to the website to purchase. All of the shops featured have a variety of great gift options, so make sure to look around their sites for more!

These gifts are at a variety of price points so I have put together a little pricing key for you.

$ - $25 or below
$$ - $26 - $50
$$$ - $51 - $75
$$$$ - $75 - $100
$$$$$ - $100 and up

If you're not loving any of these gifts, or are scrambling last minute, there is always the option of gift cards! I am encouraging you to ask your family, friends, and anyone else on your list for their favorite local restaurants, bars, and coffee shops!

Gift cards to local establishments are more thoughtful and more meaningful to the community!

cheers again!
